

Boston Consulting Group

BCG is the place for people who want to make an impact on business and society. We form meaningful partnerships with our clients to solve complex challenges and shape the future together. Here, you create your own path and develop a platform for success. We seek a broad range of skills—from digital to interpersonal to analytical—in order to work with the most influential organizations in the world, helping them compete in today's fast-paced environment and build their future. The work we do every day—going deep to discover key insights and having the courage to break new ground—leads to a lasting impact on companies, industries, and society.
